LITTLE VILLAGE

Little Village champions informed participation in Iowa culture and government through trusted, independent coverage of the stories Iowans should be following. Well known for insightful event coverage & compelling arts features, LV points readers toward significant cultural opportunities, elevating conversation with regional and touring luminaries.

Independent Iowa News, Culture & Events

In the independent, alternative media tradition, Little Village exists not only to document the communities it serves, but to advocate for and improve them. Story selection across categories is focused on:

Quality of life—Healthcare, education, affordability, access, critical culture

Equity & justice—Environmental, racial, gender, labor and economic

Play—A challenging, habit-forming crossword, astrology, advice, pop-culture columns, humor, comics and can't-miss event listings

LITTLE VILLAGE

Readership

Each month, the Little Village print edition reaches an estimated 60,000 readers—doers, shakers, show attendees and denizens of Iowa City, Des Moines, Cedar Rapids, Ames, Cedar Falls and the Quad Cities.

Distribution is 15% by paid subscription and 85% by voluntary active pickup at ~800 high-traffic dining, retail, travel, arts and cultural venues.

The monthly print run averages 20,000 copies, reaching an estimated 60,000 readers. 40,000 weekly email touches, 50,000 unique readers each month on littlevillagemag.com, and daily social media engagement bring LV's monthly reach over 150,000.

LITTLE VILLAGE

An average of 20,000 copies of Little Village are printed each month, and distributed for free active pickup at over 800 locations—mostly retail, dining, and cultural venues around Iowa City, Des Moines, Cedar Rapids, Ames, Cedar Falls/Waterloo and the Quad Cities.

Going places:

Nearly all readers picked up the magazine while visiting a brick and mortar food, retail, performance or other cultural destination.

Doing things:

About half of the content in each issue is event recommendations, so people who take it home are pretty serious about this stuff. LV editors are experts at curating the constant feed and giving readers a few things to focus on, while making sure there is something attention-worthy for all interests and price points.

Cash in hand:

LV readers span income brackets, with a median personal income of $55k, and 48% earning over $60k.

Giving a darn:

73% are homeowners, and most have more than one child in their household. They engage with issues of social, economic, and environmental health in their community, and they speak up: 98% voted in 2020, and 96% in 2022. More than 90% say they would prefer to do business with an organization that advertises in Little Village.

Trusted context:

In print for over 20 years, LV is among the Midwest's most nationally relevant and longest-running indie, alternative publications.
